

LOCKDOWN TRAINING

There is always the chance that a serious incident will mean that premises we care for have to be on lockdown.

Fearfree are experts at this process and we have designed this session to ensure that your staff are able to react appropriately and in a timely manner to ensure everyone's safety.

What is covered?

- ✓ Why would you lockdown
- ✓ How do you lockdown your space, what do you need to ensure you do.
- ✓ What should your policy and procedures include.

Who Should Attend?

- ✓ CEO's
- ✓ Senior Managers
- ✓ Security Managers
- ✓ Safety Managers
- ✓ Staff of the facilities/premises who will be directly involved.

About The Training

The training will include a PowerPoint presentation where you are introduced to the why where, what and how of lockdown. You will discuss your own work environment with the trainer and what you need to consider in a lockdown situation. The session will include table top scenarios. In the full day session "dry run" scenarios will be undertaken by the trainer where a scenario in the training space is detailed and the attendees have to consider how to react, and physically confirm the process and times that this will take.

Duration

There are two sessions available a 3 hour session as detailed or a full day session that includes the 'dry run' training.

Where?

At your premise location or place of your choice At a time that suits you.

Craig Bidois

Craig is one of a small number of international trainers to be formally certified to deliver security management courses at the executive level of the United Nations and uses these skills to train and develop instructors of many organisations.

Awarded the Iraqi Reconstruction Medal by the British Government for his dedicated work under extreme conditions to help rebuild the Iraqi Security Forces, Craig concentrated on assessments of extreme risk locations, and training of personnel working in government venues and locations in Baghdad and Basra.

Craig brings over 34 years' experience including an extensive background in the Middle East and Africa, as part of the United Nations Department of Peace Keeping Operations. Craig has trained over 15,000 people from all over the world in terrorism, personal security, travel security, hostage survival and robbery safety.

Anna Crane

Anna-Louise Crane became a Police Officer in New Zealand Police in 1995 and had career spanning 13 years during which she specialised in Intelligence work. Anna then worked for both the Rodney and Auckland Council, holding the role of Team Leader Community Safety. On leaving the Auckland Council Anna has worked with Business Associations undertaking projects and training to increase their members' safety. She has been our senior trainer for just over 4 years.
